Course Name: Waterfronts that Work Summit

Provided By: City of Pittsburgh, Department of City Planning

Course Date: 3/16/2017

Description: The Waterfronts that Work Summit is an opportunity for the public to learn about the City of Pittsburgh's Riverfront Zoning project, as well as to engage with leaders and innovators from cities across the country about issues related to waterfront development. A panel discussion will answer questions and topics of concern from the public, and will be followed by opportunities for roundtable discussion with individual presenters.

Learning Objectives:

1. Understand the goals of the City of Pittsburgh's Riverfront Zoning project.
2. Gain insights into what Pittsburghers identify as the riverfronts' most pressing challenges and opportunities.
3. Learn how other cities are using their waterfronts to meet their economic, environmental and recreational goals.
4. Understand what challenges have faced other cities' waterfronts, and how they have been / are being addressed.
